Floating Bar

Floating Bar

2nd half of stick nav bar is initially at the bottom of the whole page interactive graphic.

It is a two sided multi purpose bar that is context sensitive.

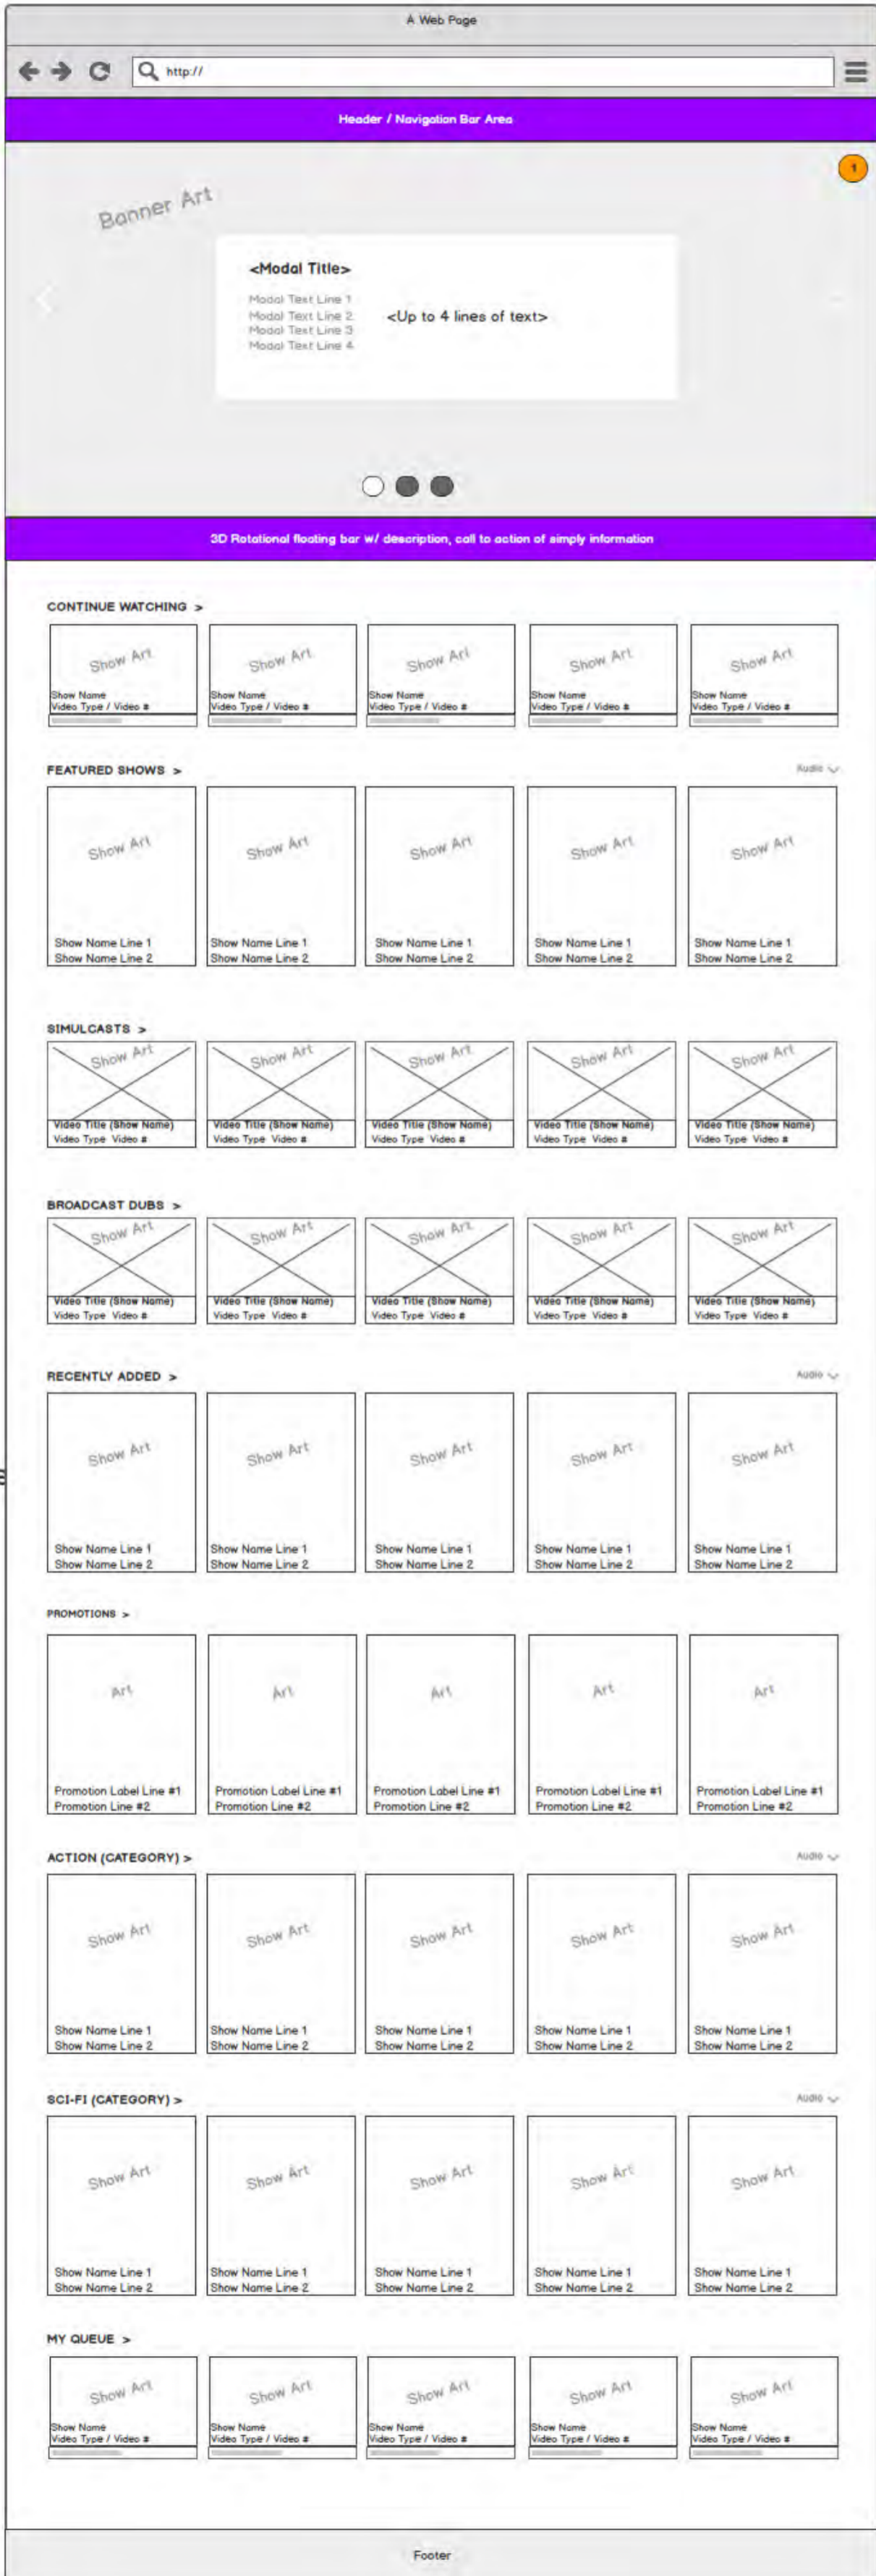

See working example at: <https://premiere.omaze.com/experiences/the-walking-dead>

Based on the area the user is scrolling past, it performs an animated 3-D rotation to expose the 2nd side of the bar creating an illusion of a 4 sided block.

Account

The purpose of the new US account area is to

1. FLATTEN the navigation
2. Show all areas/sub areas to the user at a glance

The original US account area was a three tiered nav structure that no one could figure out (verified by user testing).

The pattern for the US account area was modified by a tested and valid 'apple' pattern

These designs were completed using earlier requirements and wish list feature sets; they WILL change based on incoming new requirements and subscription offerings and pricing.

The ACTUAL areas in the US account section will be determined by business requirements; these wires are based on CURRENT functionality unless otherwise notes

These were complete WAY PRIOR to the Shopping Cart and Checkout wires, so there are inconsistencies which should be rectified between the two if possible

Account Landing Page

This is a tested 'Apple' pattern

Account

1 Account is a separate page with no carousels
User might have to use 2ndary login to access this

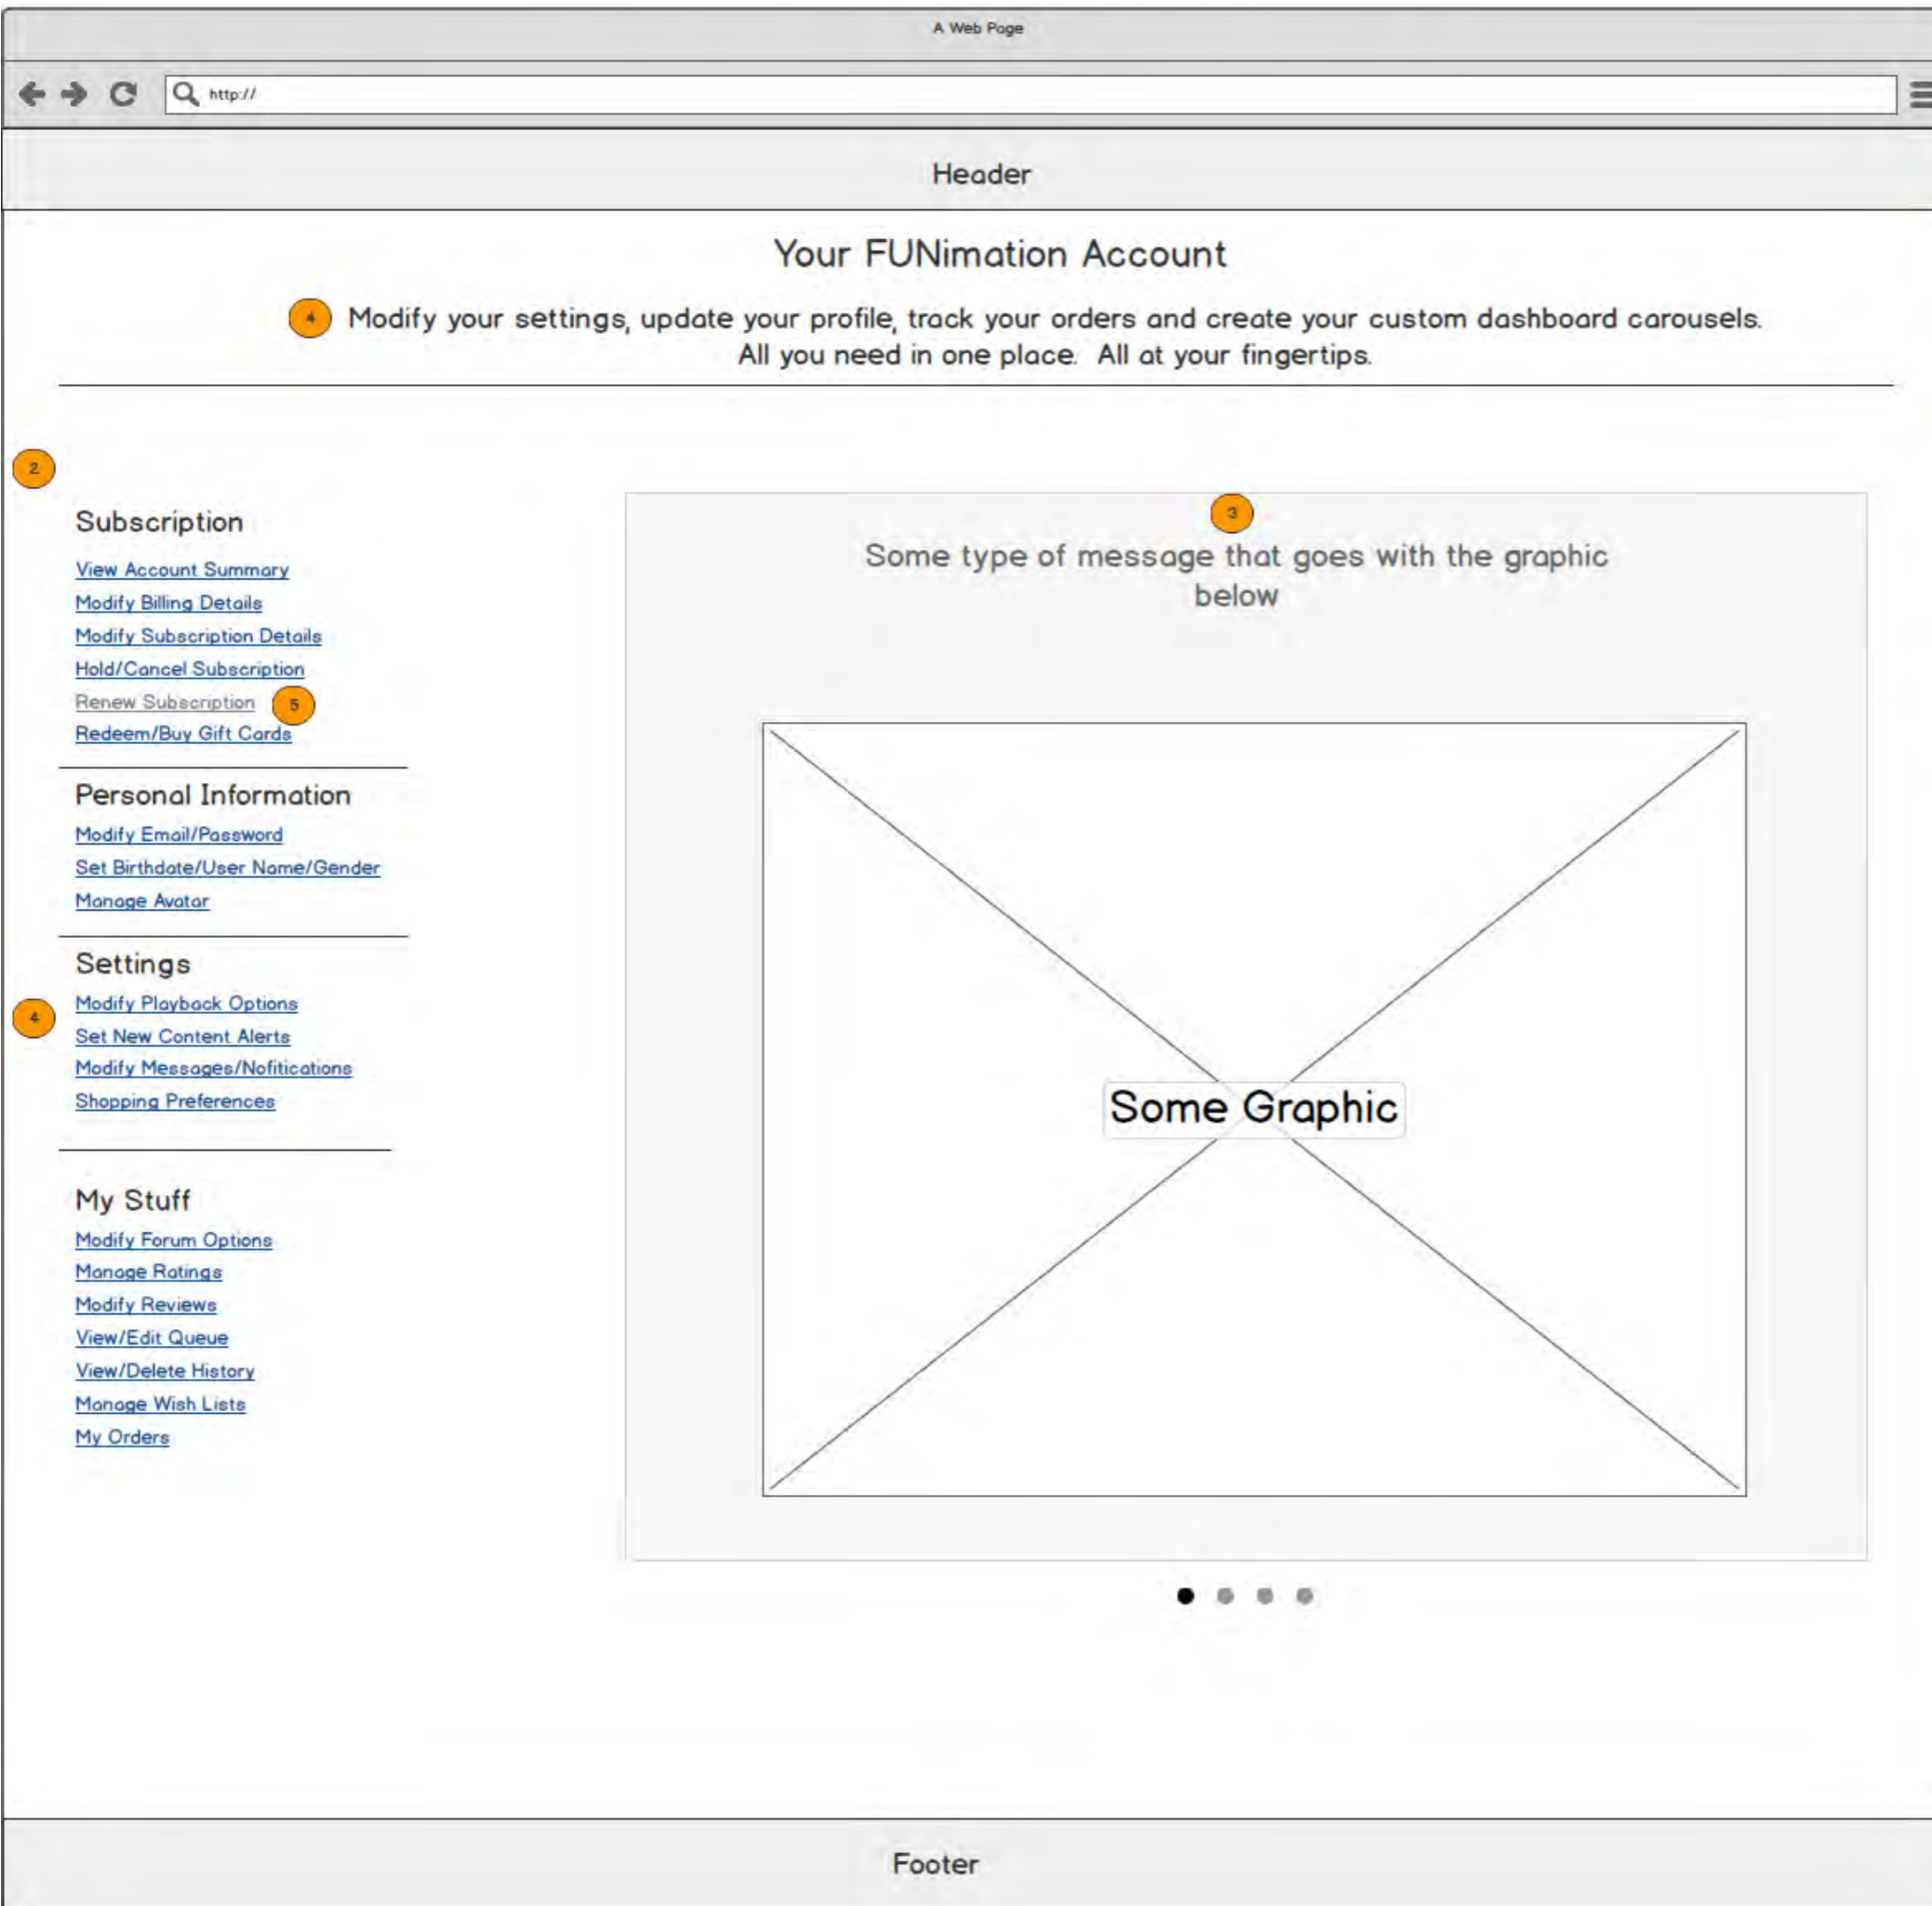

2 User account links in list format (Prelim list shown)
Hierarchy is flattened to promote discoverability

3 Content Area which intially holds a message/graphic carousel
explaining new functionality of account section/carousel customization
Contents area is populated with appropriate fields when links to the left are selected (contents area layout TBD)

4 User account links visibility is role based

Note: Number of Sections, Links and Verbiage due to change

5 Renew Subscription is only shown if user is past paid subscriber

I want to find a solution where the user is NOT taken off the page to view the Terms of Use

Options are
1 display terms of use in page (Carly says they won't approve)
2 Leave this section OUT as TOU is in every page footer (Carly says they won't approve)
(only time streaming sights put TOU in accounts page is when they are NOT on the footer - ours are on the footer)
3 have a link that opens another tab for user to read the TOU

It is easier to maintain ONE TOU instead of having one for streaming and another for other site stuff

Modify Subscription

Subscription - Modify Subscription Details

- 1 Modify Subscription
- 2 Current Plan Info
If user is in Free Trial, display "Free Trial End Date: mm-dd-yyyy" below "Next Renewal Date"
- 3 Change Plan Section

Show user their current settings and enable buttons/ fields as they change their plan (this is a firm UX issue, do NOT show them anything other than their CURRENT settings)

Only after a new plan is selected or a new billing duration is selected or both does "Effective Date of Plan Change" fields enable; user must select one of those radio buttons in order to enable the "Submit" button

I see no need to throw them into a upgrade flow when this can be taken care of on page
- 4 After Submission, the system presents either a success message or an error message for the transaction. That message is shown in the Account page Content Area.

In the case of the error message instructions should tell the user what to do next

In the case of success, the user success message is accompanied by an "OK" button after which being clicked, the user is returned to the Modify Subscription page with the modifications shown (for the Today option).

For the "Next Bill Date" change show a section of "Pending Changes" with the option to "Cancel" the pending changes and go back to the original Modify Subscription page.
- 5 IF the user's Billing Method is PayPal, the Change Plan Section should be replaced with a message conveying what they need to do since they pay with PayPal (if any difference) along with a link to PayPal
- 6 Need info explaining going from paid to Free (downgrade)
- 8 Need info:
 1. Going from free to SubPass (upgrade)
NOTE: CC info must be on file for billing
 2. Going from All-AccessPass to SubPass (downgrade)
 3. Going from free to All-AccessPass & SubPass to All-Access Pass (Upgrade)
NOTE: CC info must be on file for billing

In the case of a Basic user UPGRADING to a paid subscription, the following applies (Since they won't have subscription billing info in their account)

2 There are 4 types of Notifications the user can receive in their notifications list; each type has a distinct icon.

Types:
Account
Queue
Show
History

3 Drop Down: v

Exposes options:
All (selects All)
None (deselects any checked)
All Account (selects all account ones)
All Queue (selects all Queue ones)
All Show (selects all Show)
All History (selects all History)

This is the Yahoo email pattern
Selecting checkbox by itself, selects all that are within the current user view, NOT ALL of that type; that is covered in the pull down "ALL"

4 Since there is the possibility of dozens of notification, pagination will need to be used:

Usual pagination rules apply:
If all notifications can be seen in one view, then NO pagination exposed

5 Notifications is an EXPANDABLE/COLLAPSABLE section (chevron up/down) to close/open

7 There are Specific Thread Icons and Forum Icons
Need full count and definition of each for graphics production

8 Need to decide how many threads and forums to display by default, I suggest 5-10 and use pagination to move back and forth

9 This section is a Div/Accordion that can be expanded and collapsed (collapsed is the DEFAULT) state
When in collapsed state an icon indicates that there are new items in the container than have not been viewed since the last time the user was here

Figure 1

- 1 Do we want to start associating a 'show' with a specific representative piece of show art (the best art) or do we want, for products, to simply dive into the product and show off the product art (which may be lacking for such things as T-shirts and bargain DVDs)?
- 2 Space out basic purchase info to give airy feel
- 3 Product view Carousel Shows 'package view' graphics, if applicable
- 4 Accordion sections for product info
- 5 "You May Also Like" section (future)
- 6 Hidden Div to show when item is added to cart See FIGURE 1
- 7 Drawers shown are dependent on what's relevant for the product
- 8 Size chart is only appropriate when that is a product option
- 9 Button Bar (ala Amazon) allows switching between product options (DVD, Blu-ray, Combopack, etc) This is assuming that the descriptions/features, etc do not deviate much more than just the price.
- 10 Inventory alert (where appropriate) to denote
 - 1 Low Quantity
 - 2 Out of Stock - more coming soon
 - 3 Currently unavailable/not available
 - 4 other things that might be appropriate
- 11 Share link
- 12  Notify Me icon Shown only when product is backordered or out of stock.
